Educational Value

Some words from Dr. Erik Strommen, Developmental Psychologist and Smarterville Educational Advisor.

The educational games and events in Smarterville are designed on a classic formula for informal learning: combining the appeal of a suite of zany, friendly characters and age-appropriate curriculum together. As children giggle their way through fun activities such as making pizza for friends, hatching colorful eggs containing oversized chicks, or walking on a tightrope carrying a rhino, they also practice letter and number knowledge and apply a variety of other skills at the same time.

[Smarterville] represents the best of computer learning combined with the power of the Internet.
